

Dan Hettich is a partner in the Washington, DC office of King & Spalding with a national practice focused on Medicare reimbursement issues affecting hospitals and health systems. He provides comprehensive services within the area of Medicare reimbursement—from advising clients on agency requirements, to lobbying Congress when a change in statute is necessary, to defending clients against Medicare related FCA claims—with a special focus on litigating agency errors or misinterpretations in federal court under standards created by the APA. In 2021, Dan presented oral argument before the U.S. Supreme Court. Dan’s work has been recognized by various ranking organizations including Chambers, Legal500, Law360, and Benchmark Litigation.