

Jody Rudman is a seasoned trial lawyer, experienced in health care fraud, False Claims Act, and Government investigations. Jody assists clients in all phases of internal and external investigations, negotiations, grand jury proceedings, civil lawsuits, criminal indictments, jury trials, sentencings and appeals. She has tried dozens of jury and bench trials in federal and state courts, argued before the U.S. Court of Appeals for the Fifth Circuit and appeared before the U.S. Supreme Court. Recent significant experience includes reverse false claims, Medicaid reclamation and third party liability, the PPP program, and COVID lab and billing issues.

Jody served as a federal prosecutor for the Northern District of Texas. Prior to that, she was appointed by the Texas Attorney General to spearhead high-profile charitable trust and healthcare litigation matters for the State of Texas. Jody currently serves as the Office Managing Partner for Husch Blackwell, LLP's Austin, Texas office. She is the firmwide Practice Group Leader for Husch Blackwell's White Collar and Government Investigations practice group. She is also the founder and Chair of the firm's False Claims Act Working Group.